THE DUTY OF THE SENATE
Since the passage of the Anti-Lynching bill by the House of Representatives by such a large majority, we can't but expect the bill to pass the Senate with very little opposition.
Of course, there will be some opposition from some of the Southern Democratic members, but it is to be expected that those who were elected on their Anti-Negro platform. But the personnel of the Senate are, as a rule made up of a different class of men to that of the House. Then too, not being so large in numbers, it will not be quite as noisy.

EXPLAIN, JESSE BARRETT
It is reported that Attorney General, Hon. Jesse W. Barrett will be one of the speakers at the Lincoln-Boulevard Roosevelt Celebration at Union Square, St. Louis, on Saturday, Feb. 11.
We hope he will find time to devote from his subject long enough to explain why he has taken no action against the sheriff at Bowling Green who allowed Roy Hammond to be taken from him and lynched.

INCONSISTENT
It is the hardest of inconsistencies to hear one say that he is opposed to lynching and at the same time, do all in his power to keep a law from being passed which has for its purpose the making of lynching less popular.
